Visitors Played Snappy Game, But Were Not Very Lucky.

GAME LOST IN THE EIGHTH

Leake Started Things With a Clean Drive-Game To-day Begins at Two O'clock.

Norfolk's aggregation of ballologists suddently got delirous in the eighth in-ning yesterday afternoon and before they could get a nerve-settler the Brownles had sent five men across the rubber and 8 to 5. Leake's pretty single to the left garden, when two men were out, started to moving for the local team and with two very bum errors and two more safe whacks, the Champions won out with a grandstand finish.

Kain, formerly a Richmond baseballologist and an erstwhile capitalist and league manager, did the unapiring and his decisions were good. There were several times that it required a keen eye to see the plays, but every time "Barley" measured up to the requirements Norfolk kicked. But it wasn't the umpire or anything that made the visitors lose except their bad playing in the eighth. Shafer dropped a fly in center garden that could have been caught by an amateur. Keane let a ball sitck to his hands and a run came in. Both of these men are good players, but in this lining the entire nine were groggy. Leake was directly responsible for three of the five runs made by the visitors. In the third inning the whole five tallies came across and there didn't appear to be very much excuse for the playing. When two men were on bassa Lawler bunted. Levike got the ball and threw it over Elmore's head in an endeavor to stop the runner. Two men came across and Lawler landed on third. Keane thereupon smacked one on the trade mark and it went to the flowing grass. Elmore ist and league manager, did the unpiring thereby got the credit for a hit. White received one in the back and the three sacks were crowded. Lawler bunted and, as told before, Leake threw the bunt away. Five runs in all came over in this inning, but this was not sufficient to win from Albert's snappy team.

Norfolk was first at bat. Barry got clean one and White heat out a nice sunt. Lawler sacrificed nicely, advancing the runners. But Keane and Shafer were casy outs and there were no runs. How It Happened.

Hogan led off in the ending of the eighth for the locals, He went out from the pitcher to first and Bowers, who followed, got transportation. Mills went in to bat for Gruner, but could do nothing better than wet out from the twister to the first-sacker. Two men were out and it looked gloomy. But Elmore waited for four of them and Leake followed Elmore. And Leake didn't do a thing but maste one solid single. Bowers scored. Sharp got another single and the score was tied. McEvov drove one high in the air to center garden and Shafer dropped it. The score was six to five in favor of it. The score was six to five in favor of the Brownies. Rose sent a grass-sizzler to third and there was a rumble. Rose landed on second and McEvoy scored. Jack Anthony sent one to second and a bad hounce prevented its being handled properly. Hogan came up for the second time in the one insure, but this time he etired the side. But sufficient unto the

LYNCHING OF JOHN MOORE

The Case Develops That Magistrates Are in Collusion With Lawyers.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RALEIGH, N. C., August 31 .- Governor Glenn will ask the next Legislature to rock abutments. take some steps towards relieving him entirely alone upon the petition for commutation of men sentenced to be hanged. The Governor finds that after juries have passed upon these cases, and brought in a verdict of guilty, and after the judges have informed the prisoners that iessening whatever of punishment, some judges turn around and under the pressure of petitioners, ask the Governor so pronounced as to astonish the Govthat he must never entertain the least hope of escaping the gallows, and yet attorneys for their prisoner came here and produced a recommendation for mercy, signed by the judge.

In this case the man shot his wife down because she would not live with him on account of his cruelty, and his

He inquired again about her, and whe he found she still lingered, repeated what he had said with the most awful oaths he had said with the most awtin oaths and protestations that his only regret was that he had not brought about the immediate death he planned for her. The woman thus shot down, had her child in her arms, and the husband had induced her to come to him by sending a policeman after her.

There is no board of parsons in this State, and the strain upon the Governor, he says, he finds to be more severe than the entire list of his official duties. He is asked to commute the death sentence of a negro, whose victim was a very small colored girl of his own race. He has informed the authorities that only upon a certificate sworn to by three expert physicians of the county that the negro does not know right from wrong,

The Farmers' State Convention of North Carolina is in session here, E. L. Daughtridge, of Edgecombe county, presiding. Governor Glenn, on behalf of the State, and by President Winston, on behalf of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, where the session was held. The annual address of the president, Mr. Daughtridge, was a very plain statement of North Carolina's agricultural situation and needs. He dwelt upon the destrability, not only of more labor, but of more dependable labor, and said that never before was the demand for labor on the farms so great as at present, It is, in fact, one of the great needs of the time. The North Carolina Cotton Association is also in session at the same place. President Daughtridge was interviewed regarding crop conditions, and said he thought the cotton crop was somethins like one-third short, and that it was certainly so, as far as his section, which is one of the most important, is concerned. The corn crop is a fair one, and the peanut crop is quite good.

President John S. Cuningham, of the North Carolina Cotton Growers' and Business Men's Association, which is one of the two largest tobacco growers in this State, says tobacco is curing bright, and that the crop is a fair one, with prices starting off at a very satisfactory figure. He says the tobacco growers showed two years ago that they could curtail acreage and hold their tobacco, and that this year the cotton growers have conclusively proved their ability to take the same steps, and that these two things have silven the growers of both products more confidence in themselvos and in co-operation than they have ever had before, and are hence of inestimable benefit, not only to North Carolina, but to the whole South, and, indeed, for the entire country, since it is proved now that the farmers can merely, by being united, control prices to a very remarkable degree. President Curiliariam says that he is glad to see peace between Japan and Russia, but that yet wars certainly increase prices.
